KATHLEEN M. WILBUR, Director, Department of Consumer and Industry Services

The Construction Safety Standards Commission was created by Act 154 of 1974. The commission promulgates standards in accordance with the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act (MIOSHA) to prevent accidents and to protect the life and safety of employees engaged in construction operations. The construction safety standards are based upon, but not necessarily limited to, generally accepted nationwide engineering standards and practices. Where possible, the standards are expressed in terms of objective criteria and the performance desired.

The MIOSHA construction safety standards supersede any construction safety standards promulgated pursuant to any other state law. Where another state agency has construction safety standards applicable to public safety, they have concurrent applicability with the MIOSHA construction safety standards.

The 9 members of the commission are appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, to serve 3-year terms. Upon expiration of a term, a member may continue to serve until a successor is appointed.

The Occupational Health Standards Commission was created by Act 154 of 1974. The commission assists the Division of Occupational Health in developing occupational health standards.

The 9 commission members are appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, to serve 3-year terms. Upon expiration of a term, a member may continue to serve until a successor is appointed.

The Wage and Hour Division in the Bureau of Safety and Regulation is responsible for the direct administration and enforcement of wage protection laws in Michigan: the Michigan Minimum Wage Act, Payment of Wages and Fringe Benefits Act, Youth Employment Standards Act, and the Prevailing Wages on State Projects Act.

The Wage and Hour Division investigates and attempts to resolve employee complaints alleging nonpayment of wages, fringe benefits, minimum wages or overtime and equal pay for equal work. The division also conducts workplace inspections to ensure employer compliance with child labor standards. Administration of the state prevailing wage law has been suspended because of a federal court decision. The division also educates employers and employees in the areas covered by these labor standards.

Under a 1996 executive order the Director of the Department of Consumer and Industry Services has the authority to set wage rates below the statutory minimum rate for individuals unable to meet normal production schedules because of a disability affecting their productive capacity.
